Comment: These meadows on the edge of Hereford important historically and also environmentally - which is very important. It is now the last remaining floodplain in the UK supporting rare plant species and visiting birds such as skylarks and curlews (curlews which are endangered already). The meadows are under strain already due to heavy rain fall from Climate change. So to be further challenged by - developments - many more cars and roads - noise and light pollution etc. is devastating. Discussions taking place now around Hereford in this regard is growing in intensity.

This area is a precious space in Hereford - the lungs of the area and reasons why we love this area. The reason why folk visit.

I STRONGLY OBJECT TO THIS DEVELOPMENT

Infrastructure from section 106 to consider: Prioritize the River Lugg keeping it free from pollutants from the developments allowing wild life to be free and protect all wild life - flora and fauna. Ensure there are ample cycle routes into the City. Protect the meadow lands and flood plain.
