Debbie

I refer to our telecon yesterday. Please see attached the plans contained in the L&VIA that we discussed yesterday, which should henceforth be treated as discrete Application documents in their own right and thus can be the subject of planning conditions as we discussed.

I remain of the view that, with the abandonment of annual rotation in favour of fixed tunnels, Condition 1c is now redundant. However I appreciate that, whilst strictly not the function of a planning condition, its retention provides some re-assurance to the LPA and to third parties. We would not object to its retention therefore.
