Hi

The colour is as we previously agreed, so that is fine.

Looked on Google Streetview and he is right - the banners are the same size, although the Accessorize banners are subtler with smaller images on them and so they are not so dominating. No objection, at least it is reversible as is the vinyl sticker.

Hi Janet,

Just spoken with the applicant/agent. This is the link for the Heritage Paint situated in Pembridge: <http://potsofpaint.com/colours.html?store=default> is this acceptable?

The lower band is a vinyl stuck to the window and the top half is glass. It is about 1m high to screen the floor units from the outside. They are to the right of the two window enclosures.

The hanging banner is the same size as the banners that were used for Accessorize. As there is a white boarding to the window which is not attached.

Have looked on Herefordshire website – thanks for that suggestion.

GT/HER/01 is the one I have seen before and I managed to work out where most of the signs go although the photos are either not great quality or the scanning is at fault. I couldn't see where Fascia 5 is supposed to go - maybe they are not using that one for this shop? The lower band shown on the side elevation window that I mentioned in my previous comments may be the back of one of the free standing units rather than a sticker or banner – can they confirm?

Re colour – the applicant ran something past me prior to the application which I agreed but we still need a proper reference since the initial lavender colour he suggested was very bright and I want to make sure it is not that one!
